PURCHASING MADE SIMPLE:

Successful enterprise leads to rapidly scaling business models that can outpace even the most dedicated resource managers. Success and growth outpacing your existing teams is a good problem, but it's still a problem for your operational resources and HR budget. Rapid growth comes with unique challenges which can leave you feeling like your enterprise is constantly jumping hurdles in terms of complications, technical needs, software, and more relationships to maintain. Each of these resource drains can create an undue burden in development, or lower quarterly margins even as you're achieving new operational milestones.

Out-of-control supply-chain complexity can rapidly spiral while inflating costs exponentially. Additionally, massive supply chains can reduce purchasing power due to small or limited orders. Account and vendor relationships have increasingly complex strains on resources and labor hours that your enterprise could use more effectively elsewhere. Creating, managing, and reinforcing supply-chain relationships doesn't have to lower your bottom line. TIS procurement teams can manage your acquisition and procurement solutions from the top down, allowing your development and operations teams the freedom and flexibility that they need to thrive.

Please allow us to help remove hurdles, handle the complexities of procurement, and increase your buying power with our TIS Software Management as a Service offering.

WHAT IS TIS SOFTWARE MANAGEMENT AS A SERVICE (SMaaS)?

Our TIS SMaaS offering is a straightforward solution to managing any volume of purchase orders. This offering streamlines and automates all of the complex processes and tasks associated with managing multiple vendors. We take over the heavy lifting and restore visibility, control, quality assurance, all while managing price issues, scheduling technicalities, and handling integration and implementation when you make a software change. We're an alpha tier client liaison, supporting strategic partnerships and taking on the role of the "face of our customer." We take on the work of procurement and integration, all while personalizing our approach to your business and working within our Partner's codes of conduct and ethical considerations.

Continual Process Improvement is our motto. As your Partner, we work tirelessly to identify new alternatives to provide better customer service outcomes. We add value by improving functionality and efficiency within your organization while you reap the benefits. Our goal is to develop lasting end-to-end partnerships that replace costly, ineffective, and outdated vendor agreements.

TIS Software Management as a Service allows our customers to focus on their core competency. Your development and operations can run smoothly while TIS does all the hard work of managing the procurement side of your enterprise.
